Anaesthetic management for NeoChord

摘要：

The talk is about a novel off-pump mitral valve repair technique called NeoChord. Preoperative patient screening and intraoperative surgical steps would be described in details. The anaesthetic management for the procedure would be explained. The highlight of the talk is about essential transoesophageal echocardiography examination for NeoChord. Cardiac anaesthetists who are involved in implementation of this new mitral valve repair technique would acquire all the basic essential information from this talk.
